People need to be reminded more often than they need to be instructed.

This is the third of a 3-part series dealing with “key concepts” that serve as the foundation for much of this Prophecy Series. In this particular lesson we will be addressing the Millennial Reign (aka “1,000 Year Reign”) and Eternity. In addition to the debate surrounding The Tribulation, the Millennial Reign is a contested subject among Theologians. Many churches, including Romans Catholicism and the Reformed Churches (i.e., Presbyterians and Lutherans) generally reject the 1,000 Year Reign; a viewpoint known as the amillennial position (the prefix “a” meaning “not”). Shown in Figure 1 is a chart detailing the major positions held among Believers regarding End Times views, while Figure 2 provides a graphical representation related to the Millennial Reign. The premillennial position assumes that Jesus will return before the 1,000 Year Reign, whereas the postmillennial position assumes that Jesus will return after the 1,000 Year Reign.

The position held by most Bible churches and taught at Dallas Theological Position is the premillennial position. However, it should be noted that we have brothers and sisters in Christ who hold to the other positions and use Scripture to support their positions. The postmillennial position was popular in the early 1900s, but after two world wars and the restoration of Israel as a recognized sovereign nation in the 1940s, its popularity has diminished significantly. Proponents of the postmillennial position taught that the Church would usher in the Kingdom based on our conversion of the nations and ability to bring about change in the world.

As in everything I have presented in the series, let’s be careful picking sides. If we are going to argue about something, let’s pick something worth the investment of our energy; weighty matters like sharing the Gospel with a lost world and saving the lives of unborn children. The position I take is a premillennial position where Jesus returns prior to the Millennial Reign, literally rules on earth for 1,000 years, and that Satan is bound (i.e., restrained) during this time period. Provided below is further explanation as to why I hold to this position, along with thoughts related to eternity. I encourage you to study and seek the position you best believe is reflected in the Scripture.

- (Dispensational View) Israel and the church: views church and Israel as two distinct identities with two individual redemptive plans.
- Christ will return at the end of the Great Tribulation to institute a thousand-year rule from a holy city (the New Jerusalem). Those who come to believe in Christ during the Tribulation Period, including the 144,000 Jews, will go on to populate the earth during this time. Those who were raptured or raised previous to the Tribulation Period will reign with Christ over the millennial population.
- At the end of the Millennium, the "White Throne" judgment will occur after which Satan and all non-believers will be thrown into the lake of fire. Christ and all saints will proceed into eternal glory.
- Major proponents of the premillennial position include J. Nelson Darby, C.I. Scofield, Harry A. Ironside, Gleason Archer, Donald G. Barnhouse, Hal Lindsey, Chuck Smith, John MacArthur, Charles Ryrie, Charles Stanley, Norman L. Geisler, and Tim LaHaye.
